

Lama Migmar Tseten

“The Heart of Buddhist Wisdom”

2:50 - 4:30 pm, February 26th

30 Behrakis, Northeastern University

Lama Migmar has served as the Buddhist Chaplain of Harvard University since 1997. He was educated in both traditional and contemporary forms of education in India, graduating with an Acharya degree in 1979 from the Tibetan Institute of Sanskrit University. Lama Migmar was awarded a medal of academic excellence by His Holiness the Dalai Lama and was also recognized as Khenpo for his scholarship and service to the Dharma by His Holiness the Sakya Trizin. He founded the Sakya Institute for Buddhist Studies in 1990 and is the author of numerous volumes on Buddhist teachings, including The Wisdom Gone Beyond and Awakening to the Noble Truth. In addition to his duties in Cambridge, Lama Migmar leads retreats and classes throughout the world.